To Insure or not to Insure.....

Everytime I am asked if I would insure my cat the answer is always the same – “Given the choice between pet insurance or no pet insurance I choose insurance as I would not want finance to influence what I can and cannot do for my feline friends.

“GIVEN THE CHOICE
BETWEEN PET INSURANCE
OR NO PET INSURANCE I
CHOOSE INSURANCE AS I WOULD NOT WANT FINANCE
TO INFLUENCE WHAT I CAN AND CANNOT DO FOR MY FELINE FRIEND”

As a veterinary nurse, and cat owner I know just how difficult it is when your little one is ill or injured. Two out of my three cats in recent years have had treatment from specialist veterinary centres costing a couple of thousand pounds. There is no way I would be able to afford this had I not had pet insurance. Veterinary treatments can range from £150 to upwards of £6000 depending on what treatment is required. When choosing a policy Pet insurance is a mine field of information . There are so many different company's now offering pet insurance that can make the process of choosing a policy very daunting and confusing. We have a few hints and tips when it comes to choosing a policy and hope you find them useful. We are always happy to answer any questions regarding insurance at the clinic.

TEAM NEWS

We would like to wish a warm welcome to Amy and Heather.

Qualified and Registered Veterinary Nurse Amy joined our nursing team in January 2013. She has been nursing for 6 years and has always had a keen interest in all aspects of feline nursing. She enjoys learning why our feline friends do what they do and as such is keen to further her knowledge in feline behaviour. With her kind and gentle nature she compliments the team well.

Within one month of joining the team she gave Maggie a new home >^^<

The Trials and Tribulations of Growing Old Gracefully

Acclaimed Cat Behaviour Counsellour Vicky Halls will be speaking at our next client evening (Friday 19th July). If you are interested in attending please call or email the clinic for further details. Places are limited.

We are also going to be running Wellness Clinics and promoting regular health checks.

We have been delighted over the years with the popularity of our Facebook Group with its ever-expanding number of members. We are excited to announce that we also have a clinic Facebook page that we hope will keep everybody updated regularly on offers, clinic news and with links to our blog. If you 'like' our page and send us a photo of your feline friend they could feature as our Cover Page for a month and you could win a copy of Essential Cattitude.
